

Consent to publication

I agree that information about me and/or my photographs can be published in a Science Repository journal (<https://www.sciencerepository.org/journals>). I understand that:

- Although my name will not be published and the authors will remove as much identifying information as possible, complete anonymity is not guaranteed and I might be identified from the published article.
- Science Repository articles are published online under a Creative Commons Attribution License (<https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/>) that allows anyone to reuse the article and its images provided they give credit to the authors.
- The manuscript may change during the review and production processes.
- Once the article is published, I cannot remove my consent.

Name of subject described and/or pictured:

If the subject is a minor (child), unable to consent, not competent, or deceased, I agree for them. Name of person giving consent (if different):

Relationship to subject of person giving consent (if different):

Manuscript title:

Author:

I have seen a copy of the manuscript: •

or

I waive the right to see a copy of the manuscript: •

Signature of subject

Date:

Signature of author:

Date:

This form will be retained by the authors and made available to Science Repository only on request